

"David and his firm have assisted our group of companies in planning and development of our office environment since mid nineties. During this time our company within Tasmania has increased in staff numbers by over 300%. David, while being proactive in designing, has always been able to find that "balance" between the client's desire and a professional outcome for all concerned. This aspect we find of tremendous value when budgeting a project and achieving the professional finish.

David has a strong professional approach to his work that allows him to meet all challenges that arise and are quickly resolved between client and developers.

His strong focus on finding that "balance" between a client's cost control and the successful management of each project within the agreed time lines cannot be overstated.

I would be happy to speak on his behalf."
